ACHIEVEMENTS 1998

The future will emerge . . .

SAINT JOSEPH'S COLLEGE
DIVISION OF GENERAL STUDIES
BROOKLYN, NEW YORK

S. Elizabeth A. Hill

St. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE NAMES SISTER ELIZABETH A. HILL AS NEW PRESIDENT

Sheila Baird, Chair of the Board of Trustees of St. Joseph's College, New York, announced that S. Elizabeth A. Hill, C.S.J.,J.D. was elected the College's fifth president at last night's Trustees' meeting. S. Elizabeth will take office on July 1, 1997 succeeding S. George Aquin O'Connor, C.S.J., who has served as President for 28 years.

S. Elizabeth Hill has held the position of Executive Assistant to the President at St. Joseph's College since 1980. In addition to acting as legal counsel for the College, she has worked in every area of College administration and has participated in long-range planning for SJC, particularly in the areas of fund-raising and public relations. In her prior capacity as Staff Attorney for the Catholic Migration Office, she was responsible for six field offices and developed an expertise in dealing with federal regulations, which has enabled her to judiciously direct members of the St. Joseph's College community through this litigious age. During her seventeen years at St. Joseph's College, S. Elizabeth has also served as Lecturer in the Department of Political Science and taught Federal Government and Constitutional Law. S. Elizabeth holds a J.D. from St. John's University School of Law, an M.A. in History from Columbia University, and a B.A. from St. Joseph's College.

It's coming to the home stretch! Another semester is ending resulting in many more graduates. I'm sure that we have all become masters of utilizing time wisely. After all, juggling school, work, family, and leisure is a task in itself. Is it safe to say that our "stay" at St. Joseph's hasn't been that bad after all?

There was an opportunity to make friends while enrolled at St. Joseph's College. Some of my friends will graduate this year. I would like to wish them lots of luck. May they continue on their journey of success. As for those students who will continue to take courses at St. Joseph's, a bit of advice Cramming for tests does work! - Until next semester.

Marisol Calzidilla-Marino
THE CLASS OF 1998

What I enjoyed about St. Joseph's was the relatively small sizes of the classes. The genuine interest shown by the instructors and administrators in the lives of the students was refreshing. It was the first time that I actually liked school! And I'm going to enjoy graduating even more. If the college offers a graduate degree program, I will definitely be returning.

Good luck to all the '98 graduates.
Kevin McGinn
THE CLASS OF 1998

I must admit that when I first started at St. Joseph's College in November 1993 as a part-time student I, like many other police officers, was in dire need of 64 college credits in order to be promoted to the rank of sergeant. Unlike many other employers, the New York City Police Department does not reimburse its officers. Many of us were attracted to the idea of receiving one-half of our tuition from the college's law enforcement grant.

Although as police officers we are not afforded the time to take advantage of all that St. Joseph's has to offer, the school is well equipped to take care of all our academic and financial needs. Since attending St. Joseph's, I have made many new friends. Sadie, the school's receptionist, is like a breath of fresh air. Angela and Robertha are like the Cagney and Lacey of the counseling office, always having the answers when we come in with our many problems. This school has some of the best instructors anywhere like: Clarence "MO Green" Stanley, Debbie "keyboard" Freedman, Daniel "Deep Cover" Beni, and Nick "Numbers Don't Lie" Nicholas.

All in all my experience at St. Joseph's has been pleasurable. In my senior year I have joined the CEO club and intend to stay in contact with the school and the Alumni after graduation. I am hoping that the school implements a graduate program. If they do "I'll be back!"

Forever yours,

Dexter M. Brown

THE CLASS OF 1998

At first, attending St. Joseph's College was for promotional purposes within my work-place, but it has become so much more! From my first session with counselor Angela Diaz, I realized that my life was about to be altered. Having been out of school for over 10 years, I decided to start slow. I chose two courses: Community Health and The Sociology of Health, with professors Robinson and Fuentes. Between the demands of the 30 page paper I had to complete, and too many modules to count, I realized that I had better get into high gear.

I jump started my brain, switched work assignments to Monday-Friday, with Saturday-Sunday off, and vowed to be the best I could be. The following semesters (full-time), I had the pleasure of meeting Daniel Beni, who furthered freedom of thought, life experiences, critical thinking, and wore different sunglasses each Saturday. Angelo Berardi, and five classes with Tom Napolitano sharpened my writing and managerial skills to a fine point. My evaluations at work, in my new administrative position went from "ABOVE STANDARD" to "EXCEEDS ALL EXPECTATIONS."

Clarence "MO Green" Stanley, Gwen Jackson, William Faris, Michael Mauro, and Millicent Budhai-Robinson rounded the rough edges to help form a polished and competent administrator.

My goal has changed thanks to the interventions of these professors. I hope to one day join their ranks and pass knowledge to others in an academic setting.

The stops at St. Joseph's have put me on a path towards a masters degree, and better yet, have given me a great sense of pride and accomplishment. A supportive family - in school and at home - was the firm base which made this possible.

Thank you all,

Karl Smith

THE CLASS OF 1998

Wow! Look at those rings! The graduating class is excited and filled with anticipation. They are choosing their rings, paying off those library fines, making lists of who to invite to see them receive that well earned diploma, and completing all the other necessary details before that day arrives.

The enthusiasm of the class of 1998 has stimulated me. I am now determined to graduate before the year 2000! I can be in the class of 1999. It is achievable. It will take a lot of hard work, but we are all used to that. Perhaps the closer we come to completion, the more anxious we are to finish.

Throughout my years here at St. Joseph's College, I have come to appreciate the supportive environment created by both the professors and the students. Attending school, caring for a family, and working is not an easy task. The flexible schedule and availability of classes provided by the school are very helpful in obtaining the required credits. The students are very supportive in sharing: experiences, understanding, concerns, and encouragement.

So, congratulations to the 1998 graduates, best of luck, and thanks for the spark that spurred me on to become a member of the class of 1999!

My experience at St. Joseph's College has been a very pleasant, fulfilling, and knowledgeable one for me.

I was born and raised in the neighborhood. I remember I would always walk up to St. Joseph's College to admire the college. The grounds are always well maintained and beautiful. The buildings are a work of art. I would feel like I was in a different neighborhood as soon as I would approach the college. St. Joseph's College has a very elegant touch to it both on the inside and the outside.

As far as the professors are concerned, they are all great. But, there is one particular professor that stands out the most for me, his name is Professor Daniel Beni. He was my first professor at St. Joseph's College. He made my first day at St. Joseph's College a very enjoyable one. The class that he taught was Adults in Transition. Each student had to stand up in front of the class and talk about their life experiences, which was special to me because not only was it my first day at the college, but I had a chance to share it with the class. Professor Daniel Beni is a very patient, compassionate, and caring professor.

The computer class taught by Professor Debra Freedman was very interesting because of the amount of information that was learned. Ms. Freedman has a hands on approach to teaching. She is able to get the most amount of information across to you. The class participates because of the way Ms. Freedman conducts the class. We have learned about word 97, excel, and the Internet. The class was able to go on the Internet and learn how to do research. This will enable us to do research papers. In class we learn about different computer terms, such as artificial intelligence, cyberspace, data base management, electronic mail, and electronic bulletin boards.

Dear Graduates

The graduation ceremony that takes place each June on the campus of St. Joseph's College is the highlight of the academic year for those of us who have had the privilege of teaching and working in support of the students in the Division of General Studies. For you, the graduates, the event is all the more significant, for it represents the culmination of years of study and a lifetime of experience.

The Division of General Studies is an organizational representation of the traditional American value of providing opportunity to persons intent on achieving their goals. Each of you honored in the pages of this book has seized this opportunity and accomplished your aim. This was not an easy task, for it represented but one of the many demanding responsibilities placed upon you. Your work, your families, your communities, your friends—all of these required a commitment of time and energy. But so important was your educational dream that you marshaled your resources to meet the challenge. In the process, you have developed as individuals and have moved yourself closer to the ultimate goal of reaching your full personal and professional potential. So on behalf of the faculty and staff of the College, I want to congratulate you on what you have achieved and to wish you the best with all your future endeavors.

Once again, I would like to extend appreciation to Daniel Beni and S. Carole Lessard for the work that they have done to make this year's Achievements such a success. May it serve as a permanent reminder of all that has been good about your time at St. Joseph's.

Sincerely,

To the Graduating Class of 1998:

Congratulations on the achievement of your baccalaureate, one of life's most important goals. You have worked long and hard and your cherished dream is now a reality. In the process, you have grown and developed in so many ways.

This year, I would like to thank graduates, Dexter Brown, Marisol Calzadilla-Marino, Kevin McGinn, and Karl Smith for the insightful articles they contributed to ACHIEVEMENTS '98. Their words vividly convey the special struggles and unique rewards of being an adult learner. This edition of our yearbook was also enlivened by the inclusion of articles by general studies students Tony Delia, Paula Dozier, George O'Brien, and Maureen King.

I would also like to extend thanks to S. Carole Lessard, Sadie McMillan, Yvonne Griffen, and Susie James for their assistance in making ACHIEVEMENTS '98 such a success.

In closing, I extend the best of wishes to the graduating class of 1998. May your achievements be bright and bold, and your memories of your college days with us last a lifetime.

Cordially,

Daniel Beni

Cyberspace, Word Processing, Internet, Networks, Spreadsheets, Browsers, Hypertext, Information Superhighway!!!!!! Or is it just hype and information overload?

Learning how to work with computers is like learning a new foreign language. There are so many new terms and concepts to digest. The difference with learning computers and learning a foreign language, however, is that computers can make your day to day life much simpler; both in your business life, and academic life and your personal life.

Word Processing makes writing reports, letters, memos, etc. easier. Unlike with typing on a typewriter, using Word Processing software offers you the ability to create, format, edit, revise, and print your documents with ease. If your spelling and grammar is not the best, most Word Processing Software now comes with Spell Checking, Grammar Checking, and Thesaurus features to help you create the perfect document. The Word Processing software that we use here at St. Joseph's is Microsoft Word.

Spreadsheet software enables you to create your budget documents, accounting ledgers, etc. using preset formatting and formulas. It eliminates the need for calculators or anxiety over whether or not you remember your statistical formulas correctly. Microsoft Excel is the Spreadsheet we use.

Presentation Graphics is software that allows you to create a slide presentation to supplement an oral presentation. You can include graphics to spruce it up. You can even print it out to give your audience handouts. We have to experiment with Microsoft Power Point in class.

Database software enables you to create inventories and listings and sort them in alphabetical order or numerical order. This is great for address files, employee or student listing, etc. Microsoft Access is the Database St. Joseph's has installed on the computers in the Computer Lab.

Then there is the Internet. The Internet Software we use is Microsoft Explorer. The Internet is a worldwide Network of Networks that literally puts the world at your fingertips. You can search the World Wide Web for information on virtually any topic. In class we found multiple ways to look up the weather, not just of the local area but also for the North Pole to make sure that Santa could still make his Christmas trip. We looked up information on Ebola Virus, Ebonics, Bill Gates as well, and that only scratches the surface of the possibilities.

I'm sure you've noticed by now that all the Software we use at St. Joseph's is Microsoft software. This is because they are all a part of the "Suite" of software that was purchased at the time the computers were purchased. A Software Suite is one Manufacturer's collection of Word Processing, Spreadsheet, Database, Presentation Graphics and Communication Software. In addition to Microsoft, Lotus and Corel also have popular software suites. The Microsoft Suite we use is also called Microsoft Office 97.

So as you can see, even though there is a lot to learn it is well worth the time to learn it because it will make all of our lives easier as a result.
